

MICHAEL CHARLES MAIBACH

I WANT TO BE THAT MAN

I want to be that man,
The only one for sure,
The man who walks with you,
Through all we both endure.

I want to be that man
Who holds you every night,
Who on each day does see
Your eyes reflect the light.

I want to be that man
The father of your child,
Your partner in that charge,
In times both harsh and mild.

I want to be that man,
Who walks through life secure,
That when all else does fail.
He knows your love, for sure.

I want to be that man
Who travels far and wide,
Who sails the ocean blue,
With you right by my side.

I want to be that man
Upon whom you depend,
When all things come apart,
My strength will have no end.

I want to be that man,
Whose faith is your faith, too.
That when we pray for light,
We'll know salvation true.
