

MICHAEL CHARLES MAIBACH

THE TEACHER'S TOUCH

From a young age,
They stand before us tall.
Guiding our first steps,
Through history's rise and fall.

From a young age,
They make us think and read.
Classic poems and novels,
Of honor, love, and greed.

From a young age,
They teach us how to master,
The science of this universe,
To serve men ever after.

From a young age,
They bring music to our soul.
How sweet notes and melodies,
Can inspire and console.

From a young age,
They teach us how to read.
It is the road to everything,
Sharing lessons, planting seeds.

And from a young age,
They teach us how to pray.
For all the learning we enjoy,
Prepare for our last day.

Copyright (C) 2016