

MICHAEL CHARLES MAIBACH

DOUBTING THOMAS

We call him Doubting Thomas -
The last to see the Christ.
He doubted Christ had risen,
Demanding proof - his vice.

He lived his life with Jesus,
He knew Him word and deed.
The One who died upon the cross,
To save a world in need.

He thought Christ was a prophet,
A Man of flesh and blood.
And then the Romans took him,
For their sacrificial flood.

A special friend and teacher,
A wise young man it seemed,
But Jesus was a mortal,
Not a God who would redeem.

Then in a Holy moment,
In a room where doors were sealed,
The Lord appeared before him,
And all his doubts repealed.

John tells us this true story,
For those who live today,
For those of us who'll never see,
The Lord of Easter day.

Shout, "seeing is believing" -
But seeing is to know.
"Not seeing" is believing,
The boat we Christians row.
