

MICHAEL CHARLES MAIBACH

WHEN FAMILIES FLOURISH

When families they do flourish,
When family dinners are for real,
Police protect their safety,
Church bells priests do peel!

When families they do prosper,
When couples stay and lead,
Their children see commitment,
And adopt this family creed.

When families fail us fully,
And family dinners are all gone -
Police must deal with children,
Priests chant the funeral song.

When America is ailing,
With angry mobs in city streets,
The beginning of dysfunction,
Is family in retreat.

It's where we learn our habits,
Our self-restraint and peace.
Let's build our families up,
More weddings, less police.
